LAKE VIEW

An exciting new waterside development
by the Declan Kelly Group for Kelly Homes

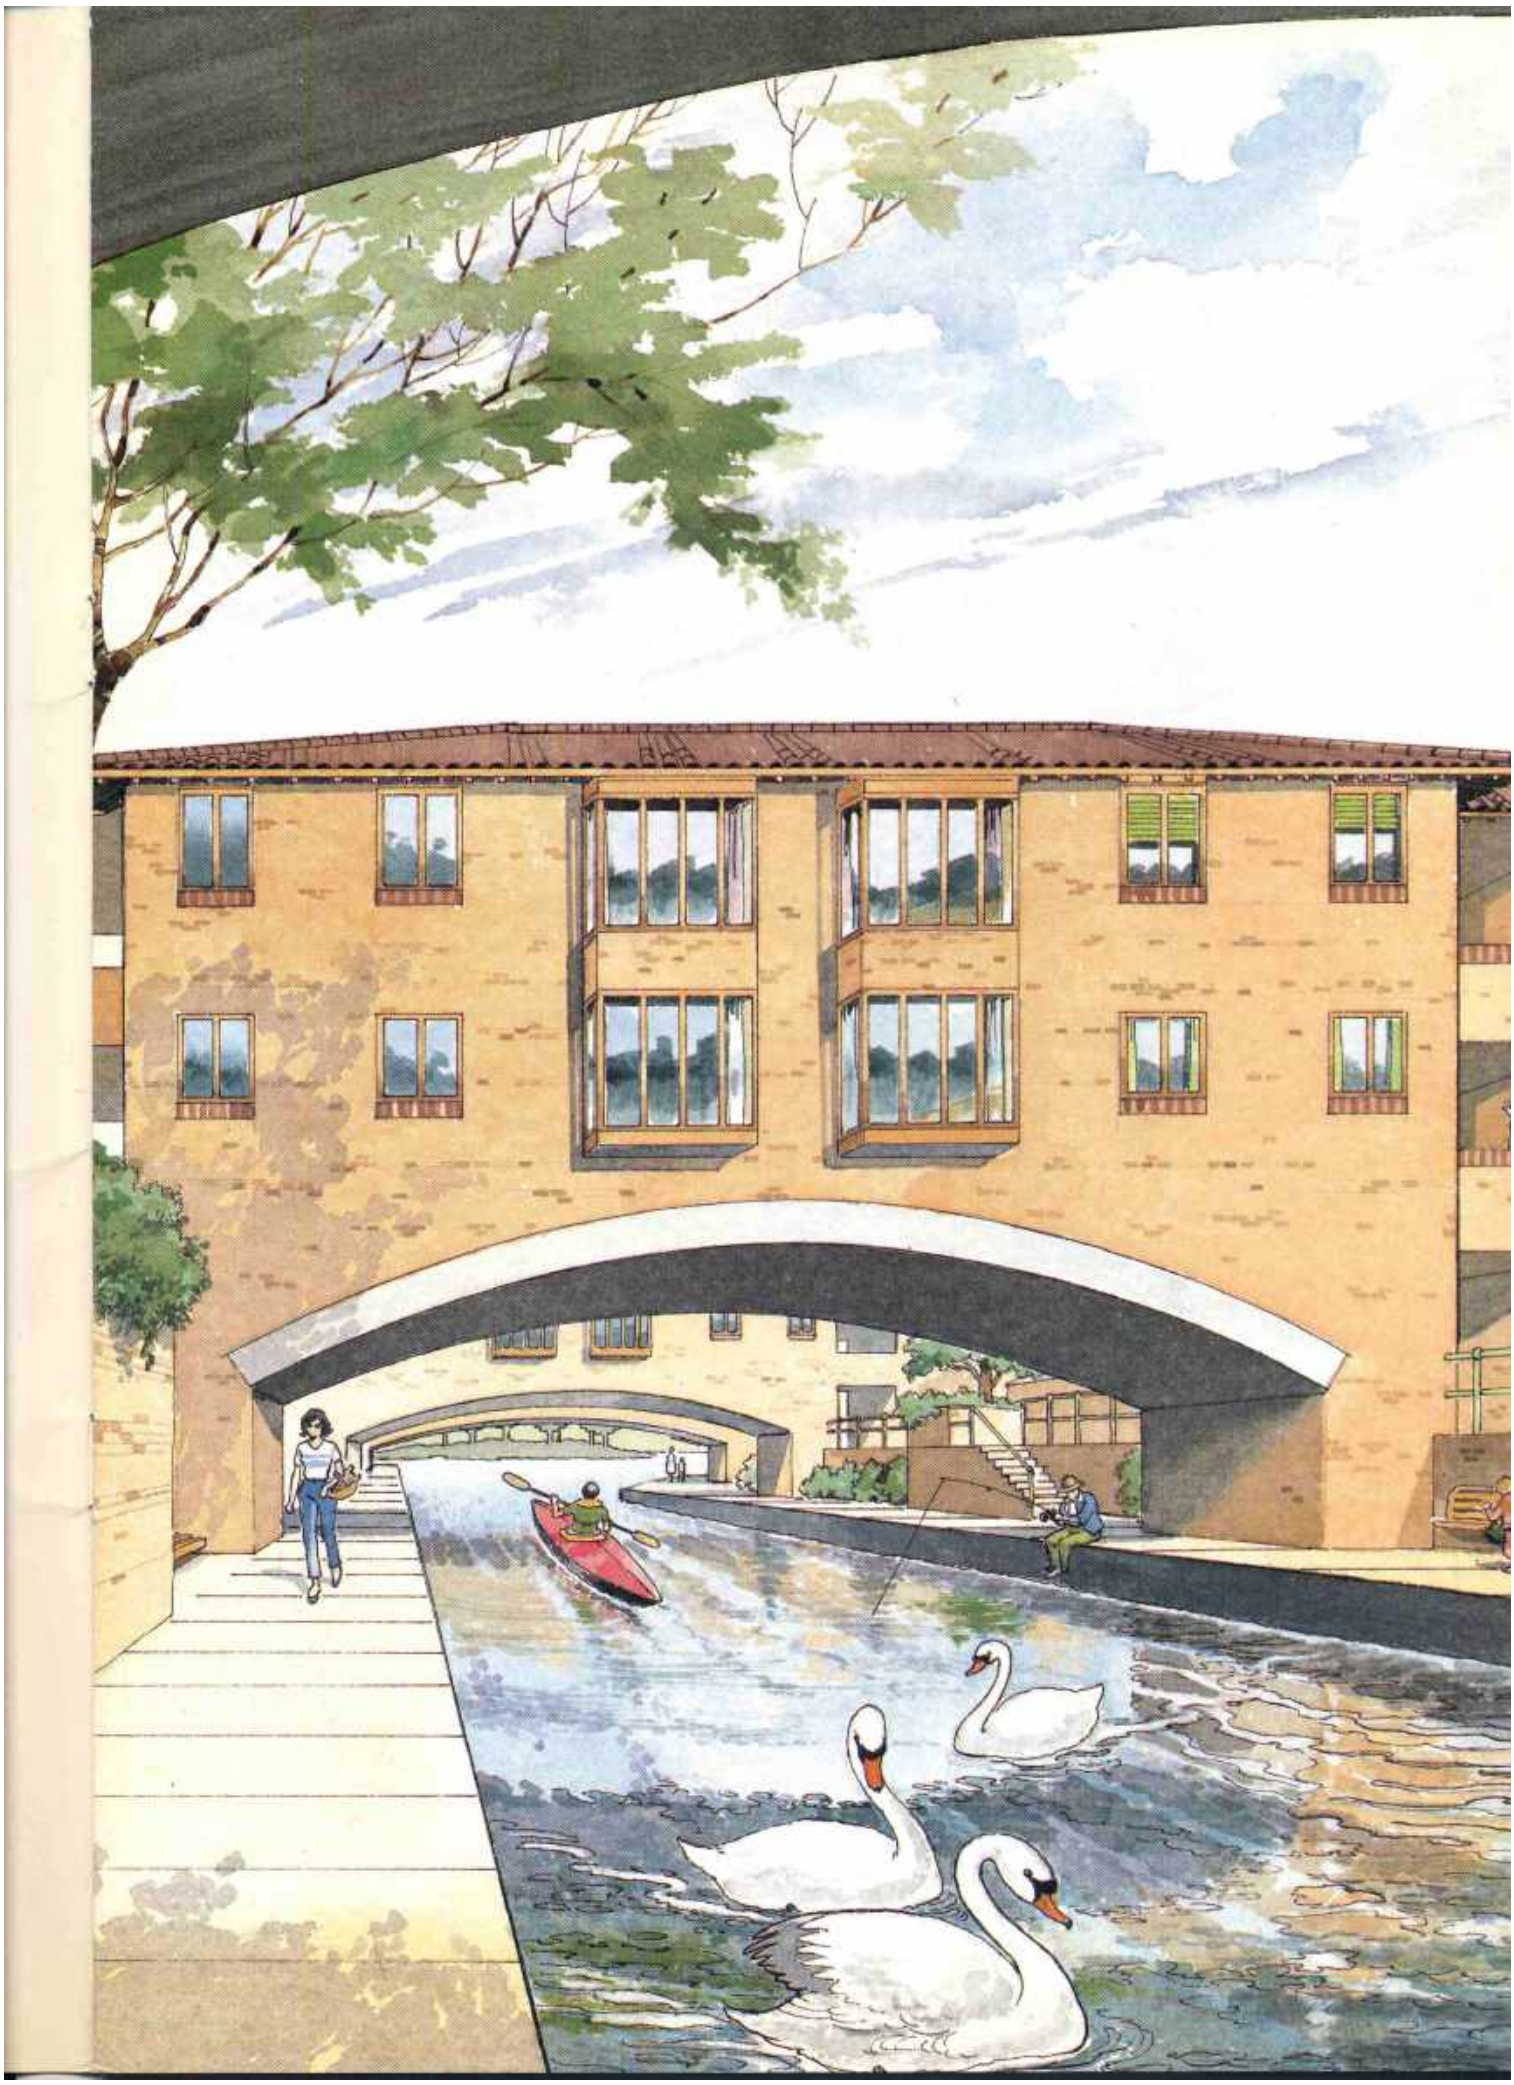

'Lakeview', as the name suggests, has been designed to blend in with its attractive lakeside surroundings. With a central waterway, the development has the romantic appeal of a little Venice. This theme is reflected in the creative architecture and layout.

Two, three and four bedroom houses are grouped in mews courts and the spacious one and two bedroom apartments are arranged around the bridge and waterway. Attractive three storey houses are positioned on the lakeside edge.

Parking for the apartments is provided under the buildings, allowing for the landscaped terraces between the apartment blocks to be free of cars. Houses each have either their own garages, or private drive.

The variety of different homes at Lakeview, each with their own individual features, ensures that you will find a home to suit your particular needs.

This artist's impression has been included to demonstrate the quality of design at 'Lakeview'. Two and three storey houses are shown as they would be seen from the Lake.

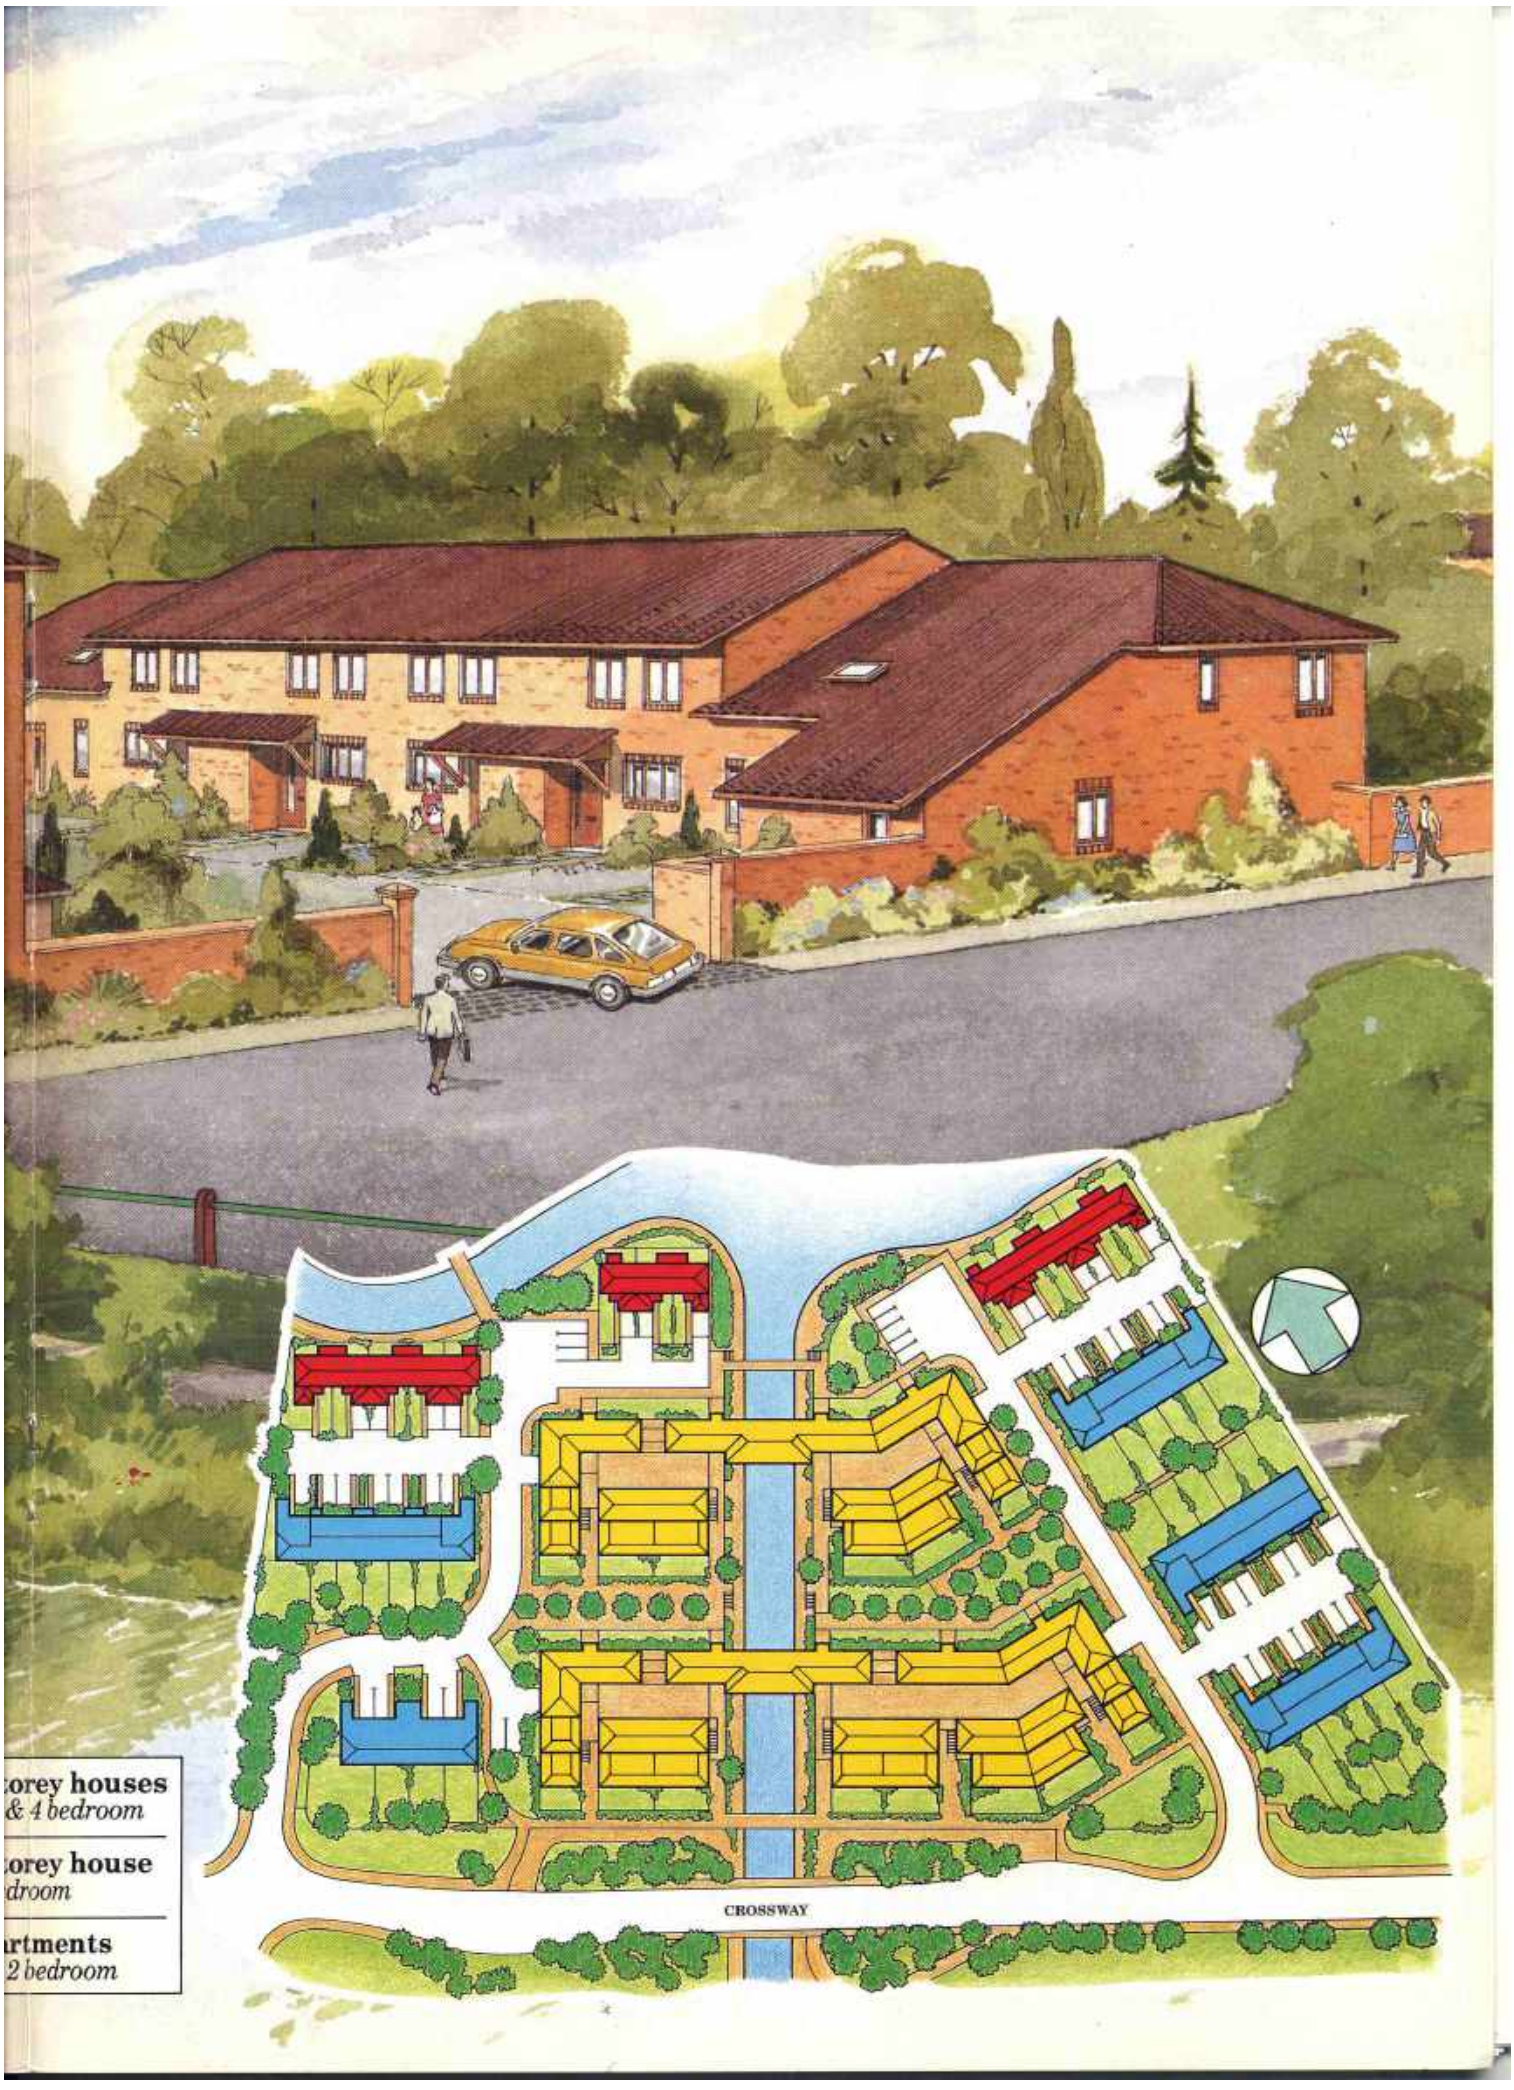

As you can see from the development plan, a wide variety of homes are being built at 'Lakeview', and a great deal of attention has been given to making the development appear as a unified community with its own special character.

All the houses and apartments at 'Lakeview' are finished to a high specification to include: Central Heating; Fitted Bathrooms by Ideal Standard; Stylish, Fitted Kitchens; High Performance Entrance Doors by Swedoor; Double Glazed Windows with Stained Frames; Brass Finish Ironmongery; Attractive Tiling Layouts.

CROSSWAY

LAKE VIEW

Once an historic site, dating back to the Romans, Thamesmead is now claiming a place in London's future.

This attractive new area is just 10 miles from Central London beside the River Thames, between Woolwich and Erith.

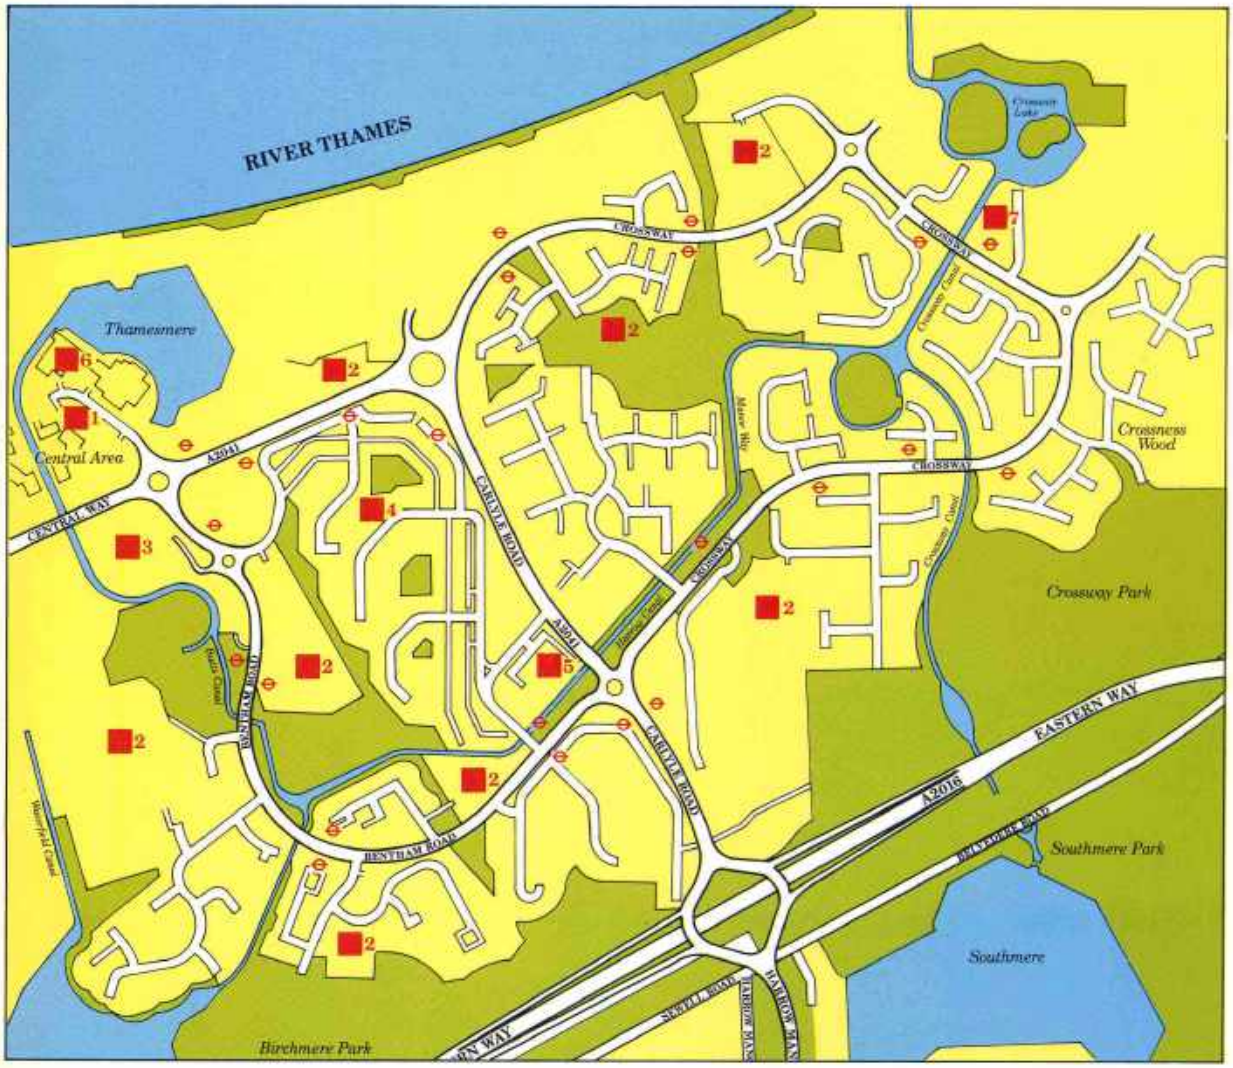

A thriving community has built up in the area with all the facilities that you may need. Good shopping, excellent schools, churches of most principal denominations and good sports and leisure facilities abound. A village-like atmosphere has been created and this is reflected by the semi-rural waterside surroundings.

The lakeside waterways provide ample watersports opportunities and keen fishermen will not be disappointed.

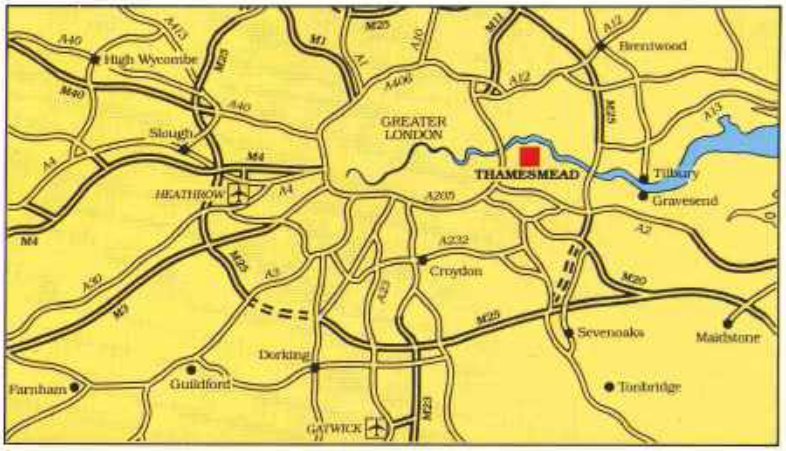

Thamesmead is well served by public transport including British Rail at Abbey Wood, Plumstead and Belvedere and good bus routes.

Central London and rural Kent are easily reached. Heathrow and Gatwick are only 25 and 28 miles away respectively, and with the proposed East London River crossing and development of the M 25, road links will be second to none.

HOUSING DEVELOPMENT

Guildway

A member of the Declan Kelly Group

THE PROFESSIONAL APPROACH TO PROFITABILITY.

The value of timber as a constructional material has been acknowledged and appreciated by both builder and dweller for centuries. Indeed, the advantages of timber frame construction are so compelling that it is still the most popular method of building in the western world.

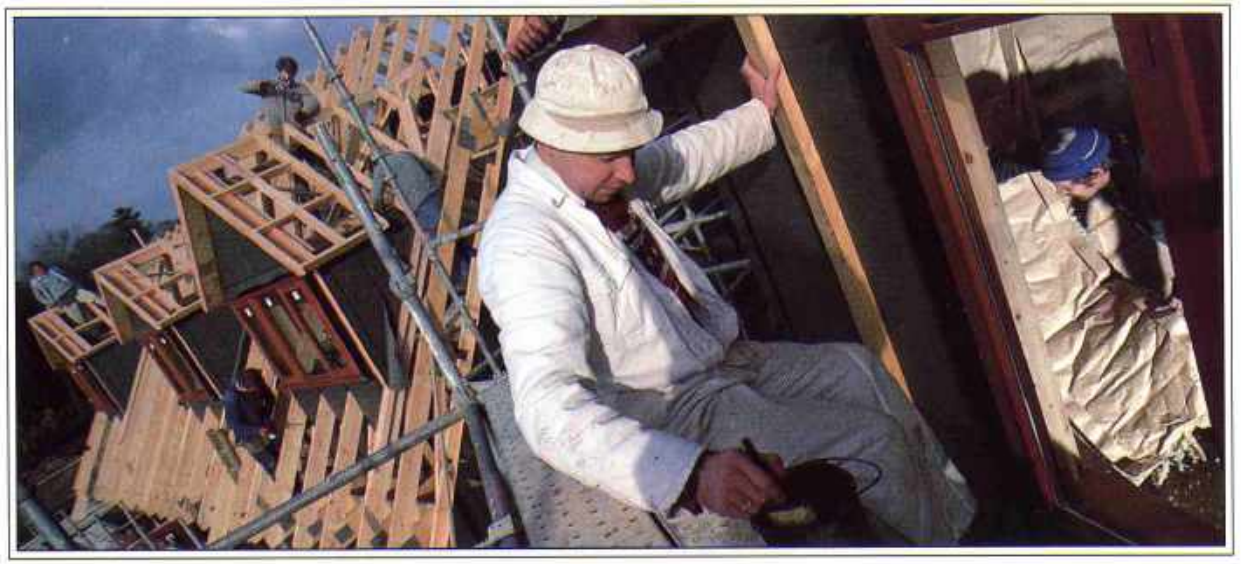

Although the UK has been slower than most countries to realise the very real benefits of timber and brick, one in four houses built in the early 1980's was built in this way. And today, the reasons for choosing to build timber and brick are as strong as they ever were.

BUILDING A BETTER BUSINESS The fact is most developers who have put Guildway timber frame technology to the test have been rewarded with a more productive, more profitable, more manageable business.

One such hitherto 'brick and block' developer based in Surrey acquired, by default of the original purchaser, a plot of land on which planning had already been agreed for a timber frame development. Despite an initial reluctance, the developer went ahead as planned. Progress was unusually rapid and troublefree and the entire site sold itself in record time. Needless to say, the developer is now one of Guildway's happiest clients.

CAPITAL GAINS Speed is perhaps the greatest single attraction of adopting the Guildway approach to building. Obviously, the less time it takes to complete a development, the more profit goes to your bank balance rather than to your bank manager. Quicker turnaround means better cash-flow, while shorter construction time allows units to be sold off the foundations, so you can realise the investment from your capital at the earliest opportunity.

PROFIT FROM POOR LAND With prize plots becoming ever more scarce, the Guildway developer is able to profit from building on land which the brick and block boys aren't prepared to sink their money into. For the lighter weight of a Guildway timber frame structure keeps foundation costs under control even where ground conditions are poor.

MATERIAL BENEFITS Pilferage and vandalism have always been regarded as major sources of lost revenue. Yet there seems little you can do to prevent brick and block building sites from becoming the DIY man's paradise or the teenager's playground. Developers who use Guildway know better. As timber frame panels can be supplied ready-glazed, the entire structure can be assembled and made secure – and watertight – within days. Equally, since every element of the Guildway package can be individually accounted for, the temptation for bits and pieces to go missing is removed.

LESS LEGWORK. LESS PAPERWORK Money isn't the only thing Guildway will save you. With one stroke of the pen, you can take care of up to one third of all materials you require. Not only all the structural components, but also all associated fixings from nails to window catches, as well as all glazing and doors, of which Guildway offers a wide choice.

Leave the quality control, quantity control, costing and scheduling to Guildway. And imagine how straightforward your accounts will be when you're no longer being constantly inundated with individual invoices.

HELPING HANDS If anyone can make hard labour easier, Guildway can. With the structural components being factory-engineered to fit, on-site assembly is a doddle. If your men are new to timber frame, they might need a little guidance. This can be provided by Guildway's vastly experienced and highly professional Builder Services Department. Alternatively, you can call on Guildway's specialist team of erectors to erect the shell for you.

As the Guildway framework is precision-made off-site, the need for skilled labour on-site – which is so often hard to come by these days – is considerably reduced.

NOTHING STANDS IN THE WAY OF PROGRESS There are no excuses for your men not meeting your deadlines with a Guildway package. On average, erection of the timber shell is generally complete within 3 or 4 days of delivery. 2-3 days later, the whole building can be watertight, with doors, windows and roof all in position. All this can take place whatever the weather.

More Selling Points. More Satisfied Customers.

Then, while the brick cladding goes up outside, the plumbing, electrics and other internal work goes on inside. It's easy to see how a typical Guildway 3-bedroom house can be comfortably completed within 8-10 weeks from base.

HOME COMFORTS Selling timber frame houses is a lot easier than some people would have you believe. Besides being impressed by the accuracy of workmanship, purchasers warm to Guildway's high level of insulation, with thermal performance up to 33% better than brick and block construction, which means boilers and radiators can be smaller and less obtrusive.

Many also find early occupation a big attraction. And, of course, the sooner you can set a move-in date, the less chance there is of your buyer dropping out.

GOODBYE TO MAKING GOOD One Guildway benefit you'll like even more than your purchasers will is the absence of cracking due to drying out. Guildway's dry form of construction permits immediate decoration and allows your men to be profitably employed elsewhere instead of creating a bad impression by having to make good.

THE PRICE IS RIGHT Although there is nothing to choose between the market value of a timber and brick house and a brick and block house, you could find yourself a lot better off with Guildway. Less interest on borrowed capital, less time spent per unit, lower labour requirement, minimum after-sales maintenance and no chance of lost custom due to delays. Guildway package prices are highly competitive, too. These days you don't have to pay top price to get top quality.

YOU BUILD IT, WE SUPPLY IT.

There was a time when almost all Guildway buildings looked the same. It's certainly a different story today. Guildway buildings come in all shapes, sizes and styles. Bungalows, houses and flats, from starter homes to family houses, from upmarket residences to sheltered housing complexes for the elderly.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT The diversity of Guildway's capability is further illustrated by the wide variety of types of building supplied, and in many cases specifically designed, to meet the needs of the community and amenity sector. Indeed, Guildway is able to provide whatever kind of building you have in mind, be it 1-, 2- or 3-storey.

DOUBLE VERSATILITY The versatility of the Guildway approach to building is seen on two levels. Firstly, with regard to design, where apart from offering a wide range of ready-made easily modified designs, Guildway has the capability to supply a structural package tailored precisely to your specification.

Secondly, with regard to manufacture and construction, where Guildway is able to accommodate individual needs. Thus, on the one hand, Guildway can simply supply the timber frame shell, and on the other, using Guildway's Builder Services Department and acting as main contractor, Guildway can provide the fullest possible service.

EXPERIENCE YOU CAN COUNT ON In almost 40 years in business, Guildway has supplied in excess of 30,000 buildings and is currently providing more than 500 new buildings a year.
