QHS-A QUALITY SERVICE

Gallions will be applying for the new Quality Housing Services (QHS) award this summer to improve the level of service for all tenants.

The QHS standards are about everyday issues that affect tenants, such as allocations, repairs, maintenance and estate management. They have been shaped following tenant consultation, and will be tested during May to see if they work in practice. Gallions has agreed to take part in the testing, so you might receive a telephone call asking for your views about the services you currently receive.

So how will QHS test whether Gallions is providing a good service?

Mystery shopping: QHS will employ people to telephone and call in to Gallions posing as customers. They will judge the reception, how they are treated and also how long they have to wait on the phone.

Telephone surveys: QHS will employ staff to telephone residents to ask what they think about Gallions.

Office checks: QHS will visit Gallions from time to time and recommend improvements.

ECOPARK DESIGN AWARDS

Ecopark has recently won a Commendation Award at this year's national Civic Trust Awards. The awards are designed to recognise outstanding examples of architecture and environmental design and are unique in that they also take into account the benefit each project brings to its local area.

Entries are invited from a wide range of schemes including new architecture, restorations, town centre improvements, landscapes and public art. Rebecca Miller, Ecopark Manager said: "This is a great achievement, and we're proud to be recognised in a competition where the calibre of entries has been so high."

AXIS HITS IT OFF!

Gallions is pleased to announce excellent maintenance response improvements one year into a ten-year partnership agreement with maintenance contractor Axis Europe.

After only one year of operation, cost savings have been achieved and customer service satisfaction has increased. 98% of 13,923 repairs reported so far in 2004 have been carried out on time, resulting in a 97% customer satisfaction rate with Axis. 85% of all repairs have also been dealt with on the first visit.

Miss Brown, a resident of Thamesmead North, was full of praise for the recent work carried out on her property: "The contractor was quick, polite and did even stop for a cup of tea! The work was carried out the day after I made my call. Thank you one and all for a very good response and excellent work done."

A delighted Mehmet Bekir, Building Services Manager at Gallions said: "Working with Axis, we have delivered a first class, very recognisable service for our tenants and leaseholders and we're confident our partnership will bring about greater achievements in the years to come."

The cow factor! A happy Tarlie with her new friends.

Dream Come True!

Eat your heart out Jimmy Saville, because Gallions recently helped the lifelong dream of a Thamesmead girl come true. Sounds unusual? Well, it gets stranger and involves a group of cows munching grass outside her back door!

16-year-old Tarlie Sansom was diagnosed with an aggressive brain tumour in 2001, and has since had to endure surgery, radiotherapy and chemotherapy. It was her dream to stare out of her bedroom window and watch cows graze.

So when her mother contacted Gallions and national charity Dreams Come True, we were only too happy to team up and make Tarlie's wish come true. With the help of Angley School Farm in Kent, who supplied the cows, and the muscle of Team Gallions, the cows were transported to Broadwaters Green in Thamesmead on a drizzly March morning. When Tarlie woke up she was amazed by the sight!

"I was so thrilled. The cows were so gentle, I wanted to stroke them all," said a delighted Tarlie afterwards. "It means so much to me, thank you so much."

As a bonus, the event was covered by the BBC's London Tonight and Tarlie got on television!

GREEN-FINGERED WARDENS

The wardens are hoping everyone keeps their fingers green this summer. Their latest scheme comes straight from the David Bellamy archives in the form of a free Garden Tool library. The 'library' lets members of the community borrow garden tools such as wheelbarrows, shovels, shears and hedge trimmers to help them make their own gardens beautiful.

To get your tools, the Wardens will need to see two utility bills (gas, electricity etc) and a photo ID such as a photo driving licence or a passport. There's no charge for this service so get cracking!

You can find out about fun activities at www.wardensweb.co.uk

The tool library will be open on Saturday mornings between 10.30am and 13.00pm at Gallions Housing Association, Harrow Manor Way for collections and returns. For more details contact the Neighbourhood Wardens on 0208 320 3431.

A BLOOMING GOOD TIME!

The official closing date for the Thamesmead in Bloom garden competition was 15th May. But don't fear if you've missed it, because late entries are welcome whilst the judges get their act together and try to visit every garden or balcony entered. And if you want to talk to members of the Team about their other services while they're visiting, that's fine by them!

Entry forms for Thamesmead in Bloom are available by phoning 0800 83 84 81.

Police Pedal Power

In July 2002, Gallions helped finance a Police Motorcycle project. The aim of the project was straightforward–to patrol Thamesmead and Abbey Wood and reduce vehicle crime in the local area. So how have the officers got on? Grapevine finds out.

When all the publicity, photo calls and hype surrounding the officers died down in 2002, they got on their bikes and started to fight crime. It's been a fantastic two years. 200 stolen bikes have been recovered and 98% of them returned to their real owners. Add to this the twenty warrants that have allowed the officers to enter homes to search for stolen bikes and you start to get the picture.

"It's certainly been a productive and successful two years," explains Acting Sergeant Keith Skinner, who's been on the project since the very beginning and leads a team of three officers. "We've managed to catch a lot of people who use bikes or cars in dangerous ways, and we hope to catch a lot more in the years to come."

The officers use the latest identification techniques to make sure stolen bikes are returned to their original owners, whilst also working in close partnership with bike manufacturers. They also provide crime prevention advice to residents who own a

Bike force

PCs Tim Lawlor and Rob Evans may have swapped motors for mountain bikes, but they're still getting around Thamesmead East faster than your average man. It's been just over a year since Gallions provided them with specially designed uniforms and mountain bikes to help them patrol Thamesmead, and it's proved a very successful year at that.

During the year, the two Gallions-based officers have been getting to know the community and building up a network of successful relationships with residents. As Tim explains, it's a way of working unlike most other jobs in the Police Service. "When you're based at Gallions like we are, you build up a rapport with residents and become familiar with the kinds of problems experienced by the neighbourhood," he says. " It then becomes easier for us to target problem areas or people and solve any problems residents may have."

The bikers aren't your traditional 'Bobbies on the beat'. Rather, they target their shifts strategically in response to reports they get from the public. As Tim Lawlor explains, it brings about the best results. "A lady phoned us up recently and told us youths were gathering outside her house after 11 at night, making a noise and leaving her garden in a mess," he recounts. "So, we targeted the area for three nights, identified the people involved and put a stop to all the problems."

The officers receive regular updates from Gallions' Response Centre staff and Housing Coordinators, but you can also contact them directly if you want to report a crime or anti-social behaviour. Their telephone number is 0208 320 3554 and although they're on patrol for the majority of their shifts, an answerphone is in operation whilst they are out of the office. They hope to respond to any queries within 48 hours.

But please remember, if you require immediate or urgent police attendance, then dial 999.

bike or are about to get one. "Educating residents so that they become aware of the problems posed by vehicle crime is one of the keys to preventing it," says Sergeant Skinner.

The most expensive bike the team has seized so far has been valued at £6500, but it doesn't stop with bikes. The officers also play a crucial role in detecting stolen vehicles and have recovered a number of expensive cars. New powers that came into force in September 2003 mean that they can seize and remove cars as well as bikes from the road that are causing a nuisance or being used in an anti-social manner.

Acting Sergeant Skinner puts all this success down to good old-fashioned teamwork. "We work in close partnership with Bexley Police and Gallions to tackle problems and encourage residents in the area to provide us with any information about people responsible for this type of behaviour or where stolen bikes are stored and used," he explains. "We're going to carry on responding quickly to any information we receive so that our activities remain focused on particular areas and individuals."

CRIME AND ANTI-SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR HOTLINE

Communities should be a safe place for everyone to live. If we work together we can make our streets safer. If you have any information about what is happening in your neighbourhood let us know. Telephone Gallions' Crime and Anti-social Behaviour Hotline on:

0208 320 3441

The information received will be passed directly to the Police within 24 hours. Callers do not have to leave their details and can remain anonymous.

GET INVOLVED!

In November we delivered questionnaires to over 4000 households in the Thamesmead Community Action Zone (Thamesmead East) asking people what they thought of the area and about their experiences of crime or local problems.

We're now looking for a representative group of local people to join a Community Safety Action Zone Residents' Panel. Members will be contacted about specific crime and disorder issues by telephone, questionnaire or other means. From this panel smaller groups will be drawn to help develop community-based projects and look at certain aspects of service delivery.

It is likely that the group will meet every three months, so if you're interested, please call the Community Safety Action Zone Freephone number 0800 389 5013 or Gallions on 0208 320 3403.

Team Gallions
ENVIRONMENTAL SERVICES

Clearing Away Unemployment

Team Gallions have been giving unemployed volunteers from the Bromley Field Studies Centre invaluable work experience recently. Here we discover how one lucky individual got a job!

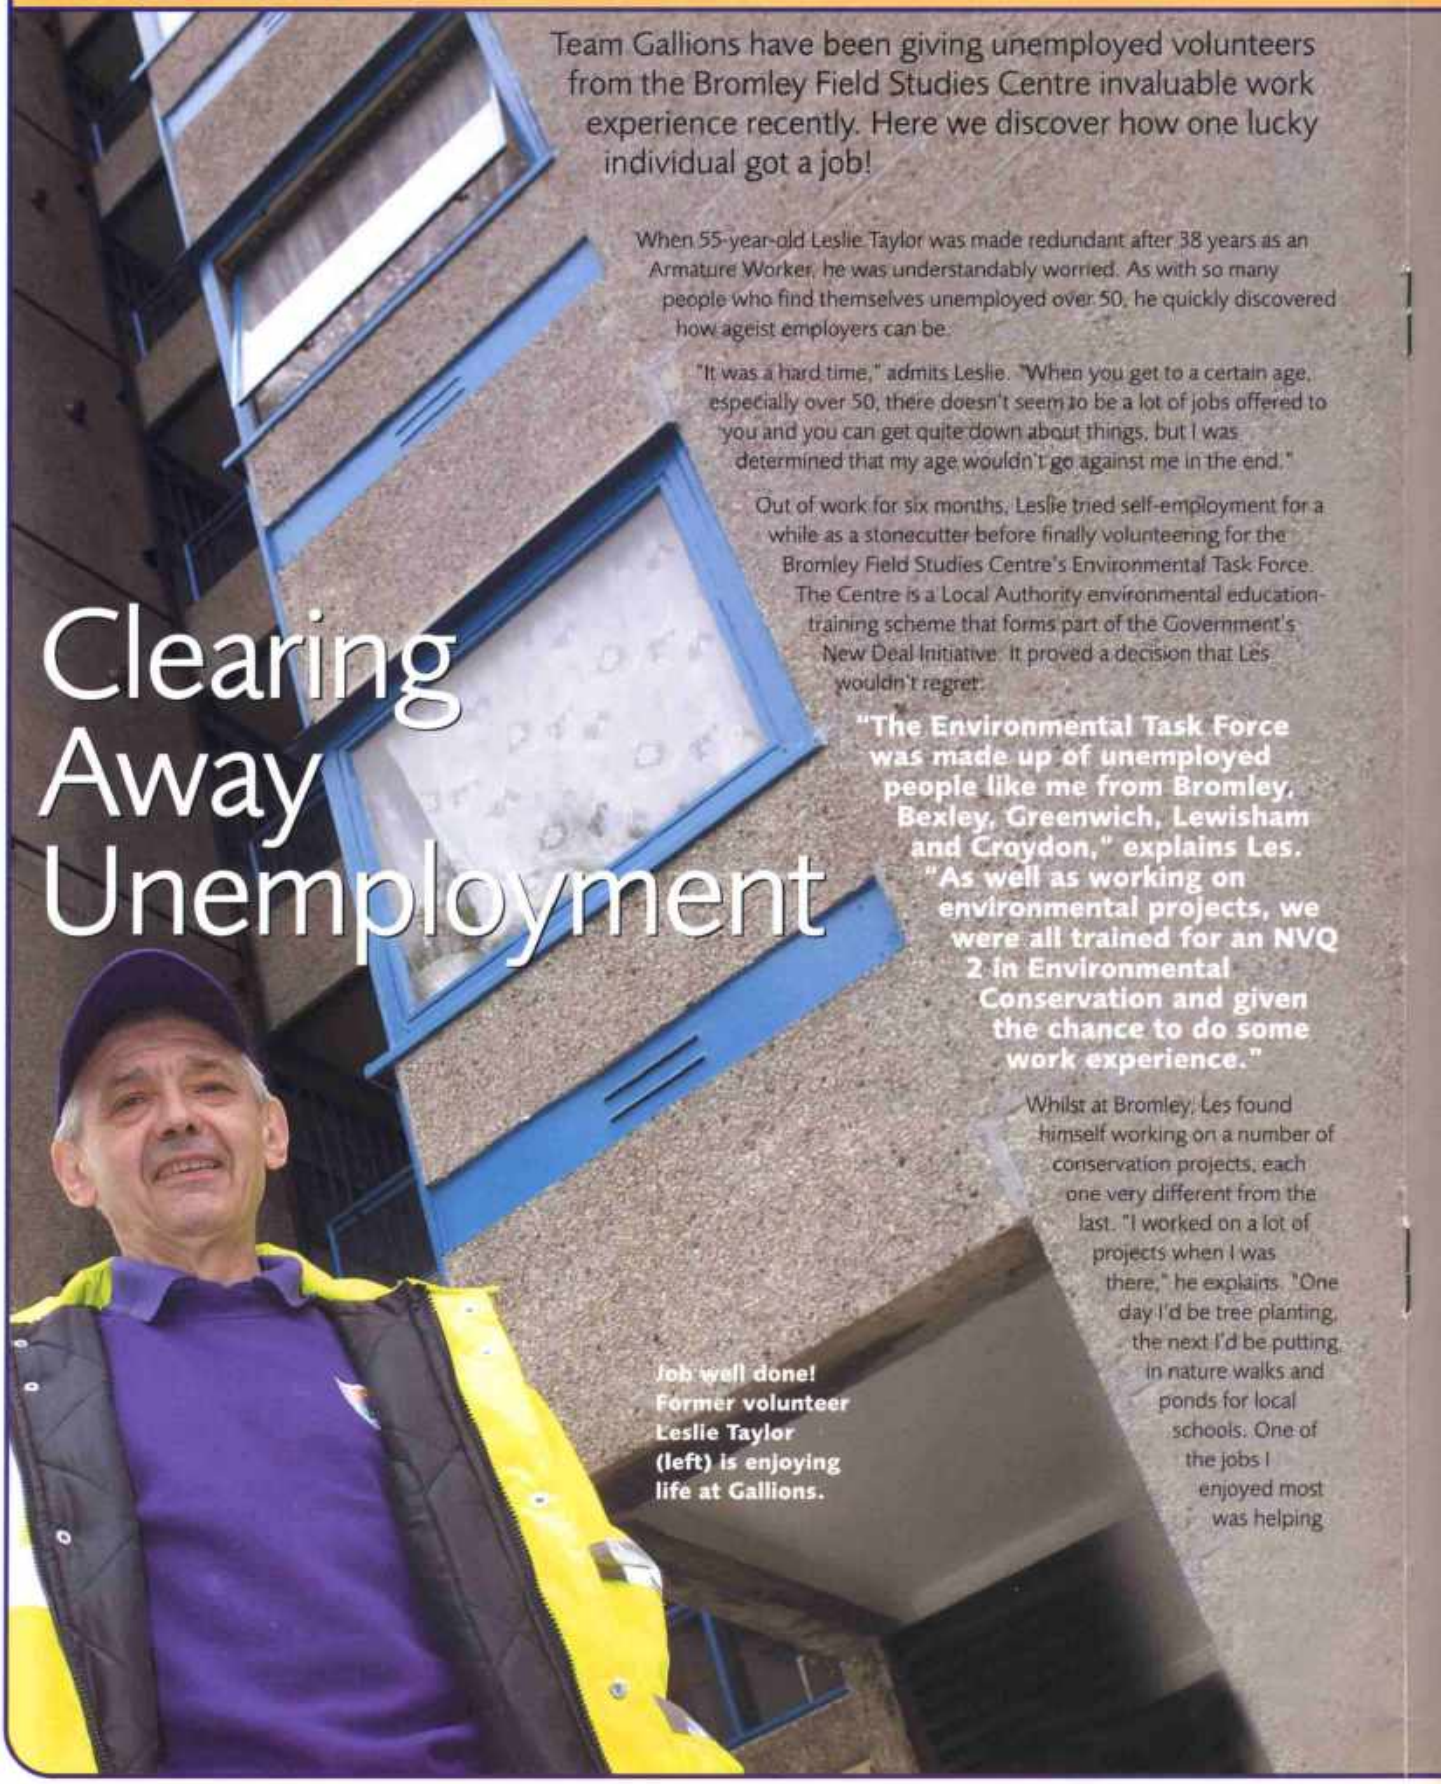

When 55-year-old Leslie Taylor was made redundant after 38 years as an Armature Worker, he was understandably worried. As with so many people who find themselves unemployed over 50, he quickly discovered how ageist employers can be.

"It was a hard time," admits Leslie. "When you get to a certain age, especially over 50, there doesn't seem to be a lot of jobs offered to you and you can get quite down about things, but I was determined that my age wouldn't go against me in the end."

Out of work for six months, Leslie tried self-employment for a while as a stonecutter before finally volunteering for the Bromley Field Studies Centre's Environmental Task Force. The Centre is a Local Authority environmental education-training scheme that forms part of the Government's New Deal Initiative. It proved a decision that Les wouldn't regret.

"The Environmental Task Force was made up of unemployed people like me from Bromley, Bexley, Greenwich, Lewisham and Croydon," explains Les. "As well as working on environmental projects, we were all trained for an NVQ 2 in Environmental Conservation and given the chance to do some work experience."

Whilst at Bromley, Les found himself working on a number of conservation projects, each one very different from the last. "I worked on a lot of projects when I was there," he explains. "One day I'd be tree planting, the next I'd be putting in nature walks and ponds for local schools. One of the jobs I enjoyed most was helping

The work gave Les the perfect credentials for Team Gallions, so when a chance for work experience came up there, he was only too happy to take it. For six weeks Les helped Team Gallions with tree work, cleaning, and landscape work including grass cutting, pruning shrub beds and clearing. Six months on, and Les had a full-time job.

"It wasn't long after the work experience that Team Gallions encouraged me to apply for a job at Gallions," he says. "All I can say is that I'm grateful to both Bromley Field Studies and Team Gallions for giving me the opportunity of a fresh start."

Leslie's story isn't unique. He's become one of an increasing number of Bromley Field Studies volunteers finding fulltime employment at Gallions. It's a move that has the full backing of current Team Gallions members like Irene George, Environmental Services Team Leader. "Needless to say, we're all very happy that Leslie and others like him are with us," says Irene. "The six weeks that they spend with Team Gallions on placements is a good thing all round. It gives us confidence that we are employing the right people with good work experience and it gives them the confidence that a job at Team Gallions will suit them."

If you'd like more information on the services Bromley Field Studies can provide, please call Steve Pyke at Team Gallions on 07956 356443.

CHASE THE WASTE!

Team Gallions are seriously Chasing The Waste most days, but some days more than others. Their new regular Rubbish Amnesty for residents started in May, and with five tons of rubbish put on their vans by residents, it proved a great success.

The free rubbish amnesty take-away service is being offered to residents on the first Saturday and Monday of each month, just as long as you remember to load the vans yourselves.

In the meantime, here are a few reminders of how you can help Team Gallions Chase The Waste away in Thamesmead!

BAG IT AND BIN IT

Germs in dog mess can cause blindness, especially in children who come into contact with it. Free 'scoop the poop' bags are available from Team Gallions' staff.

CHUTE IT DOWN

A female rat can give birth to 120 babies a year! Rats and other vermin are attracted to rubbish left out in blocks. Please always use the chute.

MOVE THE MOTOR

Please don't leave unwanted cars parked on the street. Team Gallions will take them away for you if you ask them to. Phone 0800 83 84 81 for more details.

BEAT THE BULK

Getting rid of a fridge or furniture by leaving it in the street is a criminal offence. Phone Greenwich Council on 8854 8888 or Bexley Council on 8303 7777 for details of their collection services.

CHASE THE WASTE!

SHARED OWNERSHIP

Sharing Responsibility

Shared ownership–combining a mortgage and rent–is Gallions' "new kid on the block" for homebuyers. With the Association's move into shared ownership continuing this summer with another ninety-one homes being developed at Thames Walk, more first-time buyers and key workers will be attracted to the area. But is shared ownership right for you? Here Grapevine finds out.

Amid rising property prices, shared ownership is becoming the holy grail of the housing market. Key workers can find accommodation close enough to their workplace at affordable prices, whilst first-time buyers can get themselves onto the property ladder for the first time. More and more, shared-ownership homes are being made available in mixed developments that reflect what cities are really like.

With the Council of Mortgage Lenders predicting that shared ownership will increase in importance as salaries fail to keep pace with house price inflation, it's a good time to start investigating what shared ownership could mean to you.

In most shared ownership schemes the buyer typically pays 50% of a property with a mortgage and pays the rest in rent until they can afford full ownership. Under the new Gallions' Thames Walk shared-ownership scheme, buyers can purchase shares from 45% up to a maximum of 75% of the property value, and pay an affordable rent on the remaining share. Prices start at only £130,000 for a one-bedroom apartment, rising to a maximum price of £249,995 for a top floor, river view, two-bedroom penthouse apartment. The minimum annual income to purchase a property at Thames Walk is around £19,000.

With plans for the new Thames Gateway Bridge well under way and the planned extension of the Docklands Light Railway from London City Airport to Woolwich Arsenal imminent, the new Thames Walk homes will prove ideal for commuters. Comprising one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments, the properties are spread over four apartment blocks, two of which face directly onto the River Thames, offering good views along the river towards the Millennium Dome and Canary Wharf. Many of the apartments also boast en-suite bathrooms and spacious balconies.

An artist's impression of the new Thames Walk homes.

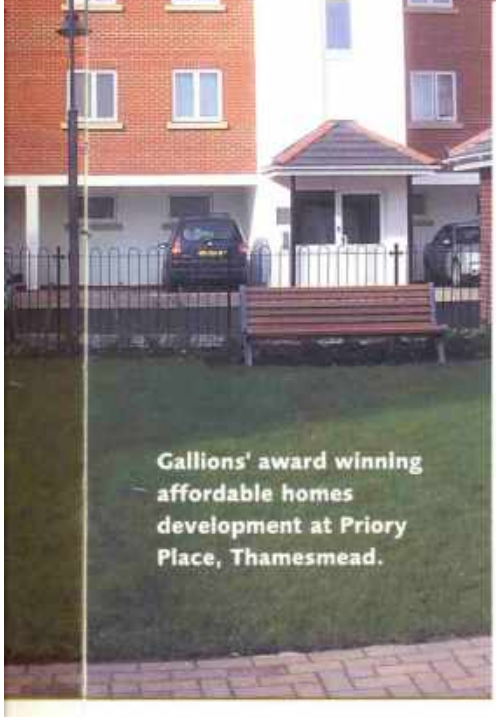

"I had attempted to buy a property through another housing association. It was very complicated and I could never speak to anyone who knew what they were talking about. In the end I applied to Gallions. Their staff were brilliant, they knew what they were talking about, and they explained each step of the process very well. I moved in 3 months after sending in the application. We love the space and light of our new home and our daughter Ese has a lovely garden to play in. Buying this apartment is the best thing to happen to us."

Henry Eferemo, a Mental Health Nurse at the Maudsley Hospital, talks about his new home at Priory Place.

Revenue Corner

Your questions answered about rent and service charges

Each month Grapevine tries to help you make sense of your rent payment procedures. This month it's those rent statements that are under the spotlight. So read on if there's anything confusing you.

Rent Statements

Every 3 months we send rent statements to all our tenants. It shows your payments, payments by housing benefit, the weekly rent you are being charged, and your balance.

We receive many queries after statements have been issued, so hopefully the following information may help.

Missing Payments

There is not a backdated column on the statement, so if a payment is made towards the end of the week it is likely to show on the following week. It therefore looks as though the payment has not been made. If two separate payments are made and are credited to your account in one week, these will not show separately but will be added together.

Make sure you keep all your receipts until after you have checked your statement and are satisfied that all your payments have been received.

Housing Benefit Payments

All housing benefit claims made since 1996 that are paid to Gallions directly by your local authority, are paid 4 weekly in arrears. The payment will show on the fifth week. So, to make sure your benefit payments are up to date you will need to check the balance of your account after the benefit has been paid. As long as the outstanding balance is equal to, or less than, your weekly benefit entitlement, your account is not in arrears.

Recent Payments

There is usually at least a two-week gap between the closing date of rent statements and the date you receive them. All payments that are made after the closing date will be on your next statement. Please check the dates.

Sub Accounts

If you owe the Association any money for things other than your rent, like rechargeable repairs or court costs, these are held on a separate sub account. Unless you tell us differently, any payment made will be taken off any rent arrears balance first. If there is any credit at the end of the week, this will automatically be transferred from your rent account to any outstanding sub account balance.

If you have any further questions, please call Freephone 0800 83 84 81 and ask to speak to a member of the Revenue Recovery Team.

INCENTIVE QUESTIONAIRE RESULTS!

Thanks to everyone who took the time to return the questionnaires about a possible reward scheme for residents who pay their rent on time and keep a clear rent account. The results were very interesting and will be used as a starting point for an in-depth consultation process. The results showed:

90% of you thought an incentive scheme was a good idea, whilst 80% voted vouchers the top incentive idea.

The other top incentives as voted by you were:

- A Rent-Free Week
- Anything
- Discounted Rent
- Money

55 % of those questioned thought that tenants in arrears should not be included in improvement programs whilst 41% thought that they should be included.

Please note that this exercise was undertaken to ascertain the initial feelings that tenants have on an incentive scheme. A much more comprehensive consultation process will be undertaken before any scheme is introduced.

BEWARE BOGUS CALLERS!

Not all burglars break into homes–some will try to trick or con their way in. They're known as bogus callers and will pretend to be on official business from respectable concerns such as utility companies like Gas, Electricity and Water, or from the Council. They may claim to be tradesmen or workmen calling to carry out urgent repairs.

If you are not convinced of the identity of the caller, don't let them in. Ask the caller to come back later and arrange for a friend, relative or neighbour to be present on their return or ask the caller to contact this person.

Treat every stranger with caution! If you are still worried, please dial 999 immediately and ask for the police.

Bogus callers succeed because they sound believable, but don't be fooled. Make sure in your own mind that they are whom they claim to be by following these simple steps:

- Think before you open the door- use your chain and spy hole or look out of the window to see if you recognise them.
- Ask callers for proof of identity. Genuine tradesmen should carry an identification card with their photograph on. Check this carefully. If you are unsure, telephone the company the caller claims to represent.
- The utilities now offer a password identification system. Any caller from one of these companies should be able to give a prearranged password as additional proof of identity.
- Beware of callers who attempt to distract you by claiming that they have seen something untoward in your rear garden or somewhere that may encourage you to leave your house. They may have an accomplice awaiting this distraction.
