Fantastic festival to celebrate 50 years of Thamesmead

Over 5,500 people from the local community came out to celebrate Thamesmead's 50th birthday festival on Saturday 14 July around Southmere Lake. The festival which was held close to where the Gooch family, Thamesmead's first residents, settled 50 years ago was a huge success showcasing exceptional local talent, great music and local food and craft businesses.

The festival began with a beautiful community carnival from Bishop John Robinson school in North Thamesmead with 8 local schools, 4 community groups and over 200 people taking part. A community carnival was something that local residents had requested as a way of celebrating all of Thamesmead's communities.

The festival itself saw 17 local musicians, bands and performers take to the Thamesmead's Got Talent Park Stage and 16 local businesses kept the crowds well fed in the Community Market Place on Southmere Square. There were 11 local community groups who took part and lots of stalls selling some fantastic Thamesmead crafts.

"We would like to thank everyone who came along, with special thanks to the resident steering group who played a vital role in making the festival a great success. This was the biggest event that Thamesmead has hosted for some years, and a perfect way to celebrate this important milestone for the town."

Adriana Marques, Head of Culture for Thamesmead

South Thamesmead

Barge Pole

Demolition of the Barge Pole started on the 16 July and we expect it will take 8 weeks. This is part of our plan to redevelop Coralline Walk which we've started earlier than expected so we can deliver the Harrow Manorway road improvements with Bexley Council.

Abbey Road Village

Following the consultation in March, we have been reviewing our proposals for the site and there will be further opportunities for the community to be consulted before the planning application is submitted. We are currently preparing the site which will include the demolition of 498 Abbey Road and the closure of the car wash. The works are expected to take 8 weeks. If you have any questions please contact Sarah-Jane Day on 020 3828 3671.

Wolvercote Road

We will be appointing a design team in the autumn this year to start working up the proposals for Wolvercote Road. We had received feedback from residents saying that the homes needed to be repaired as they are cold, damp and costly to heat. Some residents also said that the layout of the streets can make the area feel unsafe. From the comments received we're proposing to:

- move residents
- buy back all homes from leaseholders and freeholders
- replace the concrete housing with hundreds of high-quality, safe, modern homes
- create new and improved public spaces
- seek input from local people to help shape the design of the new homes and public areas.

We would like residents in South Thamesmead to be involved in the design of the scheme. If you live in the area and would like to get involved please contact Sarah-Jane Day: 020 3828 3671 or Thamesmead.Regen@peabody.org.uk

Financial Services qualification

Eight unemployed residents from Thamesmead, Greenwich and Bexley have successfully completed a Level 5 qualification in Financial Services which gives them the skills to become a trader in the financial sector.

The intense five-week course was offered by Peabody, in partnership with the London Borough of Bexley, Job Centre Plus Greenwich and Bexley, and delivered by Divento, a futures trading company based in Tower 42.

The course has been specifically designed to address the skills gaps within the financial services industry. Participants are trained in a live trading environment which gives them valuable hands-on experience as well as an industry recognised qualification.

Michael Springthorpe who completed the course said: "The course was absolutely amazing and the greatest opportunity I've ever had or will have. The gratitude I have for Peabody, the Job Centre and Divento cannot be explained. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

"I can absolutely see myself working in the financial sector. My short-term goal was to pass this course, which I have, and then I will do whatever it takes to get a job in trading. It suits my personality to a tee, and within a week it became such a passion that you would think I had wanted to be a trader my whole life."

Ellis Knowles Economic Inclusion Project officer, Peabody commented: "I am so proud of all of the participants that took part in the course. We want to offer more higher paid job opportunities to residents in Thamesmead as well as address the skills gap across various industries."

To find out about training opportunities in Thamesmead please contact Ellis Knowles: ellis.knowles@peabody.org.uk.

Thamesmead Community Archive

Thamesmead has been awarded funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund to develop a Community Archive. Over the next year, the Archive will be scanning materials from local residents to create a new website, exhibitions and events about Thamesmead's history. We will also be interviewing residents about their Thamesmead memories which will be broadcast on the new radio station during October and November.

We are looking for volunteers to help with this. To get involved, please email lisa.drew@peabody.org.uk

New website launched

We've recently launched a new-look Thamesmead website. We hope to make it quicker and easier for you to find what you're looking for. We have a 'What's on section which lists all the fantastic events and activities we have going on in Thamesmead and under the 'News' tab you can read about what's happening locally.

We want to continue to improve the site and we welcome any comments or suggestions you may have. Please send us an email at ThamesmeadNow@peabody.org.uk

Magical library appears at Linton Mead Primary School

For three weeks in June, all 464 pupils at Linton Mead school had the opportunity to experience a magical library which appeared in their school overnight. Created by award-winning theatre company Punchdrunk, the Lost Lending Library creates an immersive library within the school, and works with all pupils to write new stories for the library, increasing literacy, speaking and listening skills. The project has been supported by Peabody.

Headteacher, Lucy Timmons, said: "This project has been transformative! The children have been buzzing in a world of magic and fascination for the past three weeks. Our school will not be the same without it. Stunning and inspiring! A quality experience that has taken our children to a magical world they could only dream of."

The Lost Lending Library is looking for more schools to visit in Thamesmead.

If you would like to know more, please contact Elin Moore at Punchdrunk: elin@punchdrunk.org.uk

First Waves project

Peabody and the House of Commons are working with artist Scarlett Crawford on a special project to mark the 50th anniversary of the 1968 Race Relations Act. During First Waves, Scarlett will work with community groups across the country, and we are looking for people from Thamesmead to join in.

A free workshop will take place on Saturday 1 September at The Information Hub, 216 Yarnton Way, Thamesmead, DA18 4AX.

During the workshop Scarlett will encourage participants to share their experiences of race relations through drawing, participatory photography, and recorded interviews. The artworks will be exhibited at the Information Hub in October 2018, and in early 2019 they will go on display in Parliament.

To find out how to get involved please email lisa.drew@peabody.org.uk

RTM.FM (Radio Thamesmead)

TACO! launches a new radio station for Thamesmead in mid-October 2018. The station will broadcast online.

After a recent naming competition, with over 400 entries, a name has been chosen - RMT.FM. Radio Thamesmead was the name of the first radio station in Thamesmead, so in honour of this heritage the station will take the name of RTM going forward. RTM is seeking ideas for programmes and content for the station. If you want to get involved then submit your ideas by visiting www.thamoradio.org

TACO! is working with Ravensbourne College, BBC producers Reduced Listening, and community radio expert Andy Sayers to offer free training in broadcast production. The first session will start on 28 August and run until mid-November. For further details please contact TACO! at info@taco.org.uk

Community underpass design consultation

Peabody and local artist Sam Skinner spent a sunny afternoon speaking to local residents about an upcoming project for a new lighting and tile design for the Claridge Way underpass in the Moorings.

Over the past year Peabody has been working with professional ceramists and lighting designers, who have developed the designs with the help of young people at Woolwich Polytechnic and Hawksmoor Youth Club in workshops and study visits.

The event was an opportunity for people in the Moorings to have a look at how the design process has developed and to see samples of lighting materials and tiles.

Over 60 people came to the event and left their comments. Many thought that new patterned tiles would bring more colour to the area and that the lighting will make the underpass more welcoming at night. The design team will review these comments before finalising the design for construction, which we expect to start in the next three months.
